ABOUT RAPID IN-HOUSE LABORATORY SCREENING TESTS

Our in-house lab offers quick, reliable screening tests designed to provide results within minutes. These tests help you gain valuable insights into your health by detecting specific markers in your blood. Understanding these markers allows you to take proactive steps toward improved wellbeing.

The hs-CRP test measures inflammation levels in your body. While inflammation is a natural response to injury or illness, persistent low-level inflammation may indicate a higher risk of chronic health issues.

The D-dimer test checks for signs of abnormal blood clotting, which can help detect conditions such as deep vein thrombosis (DVT) or pulmonary embolism (PE), ensuring timely medical attention if needed.

The HbA1C test provides a clear picture of your average blood sugar levels over the past two to three months. This test is essential for diagnosing or monitoring diabetes and maintaining balanced blood sugar levels.

The biochemistry blood test evaluates key components in your blood to assess organ health, detect imbalances and uncover potential health concerns. Depending on the panel chosen, it can measure:

- Electrolytes, kidney health and uric acid (11 panels)
- Liver function, kidney function, lipid profile and homocysteine (18 panels)

These tests empower you to better understand your body's current state, supporting personalised care and preventative health strategies during your stay.
